DEPARTMENT OF STUDY ABROAD PROGRAM

From the VC's Desk:

Gujarat University has become the growth engine of education in Gujarat. A number of projects have given a new shape to the caliber of Gujarat University and there are many more which are in pipeline. WE have already introduced Credit based semester system across the University from June 2010. The satellite Post graduate centers are also included in imparting the parallel mode of study as available at the Schools of University.

Today GU caters around 279 students from different countries like USA, UK, Belgium, Spain, Japan, Yemen, Iraq, Afghanistan, Nepal, Bhutan and Egypt. The Ministries and Embassies of different countries as well as ICCR, IIAS and Ed. CIL. (MHRD Sponsored agency to sponsor foreign and NRI/ PIO students) have been sponsoring their incumbents to study at Gujarat University. A number of self financing students have also chosen Gujarat University to advance their educational skills.

As the largest University in western India, Gujarat University has already proposed to introduce a CHOICE BASED CREDIT SYSTEM in under graduate level from next year in all the affiliated under graduate colleges as well. through which students will be taught in the semester system.

This offers a larger number of courses with wider choices.

GU proposes to come up with a GU FM radio centre. There are plans of setting up internet access centre so that every student gets access to the internet. There are proposals to create more recreation centres, refreshment and amusement centres among others. Its campus planning has attracted many admirers and school students come for special visits to its Kargil park, medicinal park and emerging labs and departments.

Its an unstoppable journey for Gujarat University and once moved its going to increase its pace in many more directions. Near future shall realize many more dreams and soon Gujarat University shall be Numero Uno destination for stakeholders.

Dr. Parimal H. Trivedi

Vice Chancellor

STUDY ABROAD PROGRAM

The Gujarat University (GU) has turned into a hub of knowledge for the State. Today it not only boasts of scores of new courses but also has range of crucial facilities for students. The new look of the buildings, the rising number of foreign students as well as the technology up gradation that the university has carried out have revitalized the institution. Dr Parimal Trivedi, the Vice-Chancellor of Gujarat University, is credited with introducing innovations in the existing infrastructure, courses, technology and administrative system.

SPECIAL INDIA COURSES

The courses is not the only benchmark that the Gujarat University has been able to set up in the last few years, the increased interest in the number of foreign students have also been a reason of enthusiasm. The number of foreign students at the university is now 400. And to keep the foreign students glued to the university curriculum, the university has seen to it that they have courses like

- Studies in Gandhian Philosophy

Organizational Communication

The FOREIGN LANGUAGES Program is a rigorous course of studies, leading to three months/ six months/ graduate and post graduate examinations, that meets the needs of highly motivated sectors like language faculty, translators, medical tourism, interpreters and business associates. open for under graduate onwards the program is designed as a comprehensive r curriculum that allows its graduates to fulfill requirements of various national education systems, The Programme is available in English, French, German, Russian, Arabic and Spanish at present and soon shall include Japanese and Chinese. The curriculum is displayed in the shape of a hexagon with six academic areas surrounding the core.

Foreign Languages Program

The study of a modern language entails acquiring a language system and applying it in four active and interrelated ways: through listening, speaking, reading and writing. These four skills involve exchanging ideas and effective communication. Effective communication, in turn, involves the intellectual process of understanding how ideas can best be expressed to the audience concerned. Understanding ideas, and expressing them clearly and convincingly, demands an awareness of the cultural characteristics of the audience. The study of a modern language, at any level, should enable students to use it spontaneously and appropriately in unfamiliar as well as in familiar circumstances. Each of the group of foreign language courses is generally set in different communicative and interactive situations, thus reflecting the different expectations of language proficiency. The situations hypothesized at ab initio level are, of necessity, more mundane and everyday than their relatively sophisticated equivalents in a language. At ab initio there is an emphasis on practical utility; the domains covered by language L2 range from the practical and social, to the expressive and intellectual; while at advanced level the student explores the subtleties of the language in a wide variety of contexts, including literature. For example, with the Certificate Course student should be able to give clear directions to someone looking for the beach, and understand the information in a tourist brochure. The advanced student, on the other hand, should be able to describe in detail the beauty of the waves, and critically analyze the misleading use of language in the brochure.

Who Should Attend

Those looking to strengthen their communication and collaboration skills and work confidently with others.

Course Benefits

Communication skills are an essential element every employee and manager must have as part of their standard tool set. In this course, through interactive workshops, self-assessments, role-playing activities and video simulations, you gain practical experience initiating and responding to various forms of communication. You learn to handle situations based on a flexible, genuine and self-confident approach. You also gain the skills to collaborate with others and hone your communications toolkit.

You Will Learn How To

- ❖ Achieve results in your communications with others
- ❖ Build collaborative relationships that emphasize trust and respect
- ❖ Communicate effectively using simple, concise and direct language
- ❖ Enhance your active listening skills to anticipate and avoid common misunderstandings
- ❖ Foster cross-cultural understanding in your workplace
- ❖ Eliminate the roadblocks that undermine your ability to communicate effectively

Activities throughout this course immerse you in an ongoing simulation including a media-rich experiential learning environment that allows you to practice the communication techniques, tools and strategies presented. Activities include:

- Experiencing the difference between one-way and two-way communication
- Defining your communication style
- Demonstrating active listening skills
- Dealing with challenging emotions through video scenarios
- Revealing personal filters with simulation games
- Overcoming cross-cultural barriers through case studies and role plays

1- Organizational Communication is a management process..

With a specific business purpose and disciplined methods of development, implementation, and measurements. It is accomplished through a strategic communication plan reviewed and approved by senior management.

2- Organizational Communication is a change agent.

The purpose of communication is not just to convey information, but to influence behavior. It influences behavior by persuading people to take action toward the organization's objectives.

3- The primary responsibility for internal communication lies with all managers and supervisors.

The Organizational Communication unit is responsible for designing and delivering the system and tools that enable managers to play their role as communicators. Face to face communication with the immediate manager is the most effective form of communication, and is the way employees prefer to receive information relating to their job.

4- Communication is a social process.

Communication is a social process based on openness, sharing, and participation. Communication must recognize and leverage people's need for knowing and relating. Communication must be open, flowing vertically and horizontally throughout the organization. Communication must encourage and utilize user-created-content.

5- To be understood, communication must be grounded in the interests and language of the receiver.

While it seeks to achieve the organization's strategic objectives, it cannot do so effectively unless it uses a receiver-focused approach in both content and context.

6- To be noticed, communication must be compelling and continuous

As it must compete for the receiver's attention, communication must use highly compelling and creative ways to deliver its message. To be remembered and internalized, communication needs to be continuous and consistent. We can not afford not to communicate.

7- To be influential, communication must be credible.

Without a high degree of credibility, the integrity and believability of the message will be lost, and the whole communication process will be a waste of resources.

8 Working Constructively with Emotions

Dealing with anger

Overcoming personal challenges

Expressing your anger constructively

Minimizing defensive reactions in others

9 Managing emotionally charged situations

Defusing an emotional situation while maintaining your composure

Taking responsibility for your emotions

10 Cross-Cultural Communication

Navigating beyond cultural boundaries

Developing greater sensitivity to cultural differences

Avoiding potential cross-cultural pitfalls

Working with filters and assumptions

Raising your awareness to avoid misunderstandings

Uncovering hidden assumptions

Recognizing filters in yourself and others

11 Achieving Genuine Communication

Creating openness

Determining when to speak up and when not to

Identifying appropriate degrees of disclosure

Establishing value and trust

12 Working with a three-dimensional model of behavior

Identifying how you interact with others and how to make improvements

Calibrating the variance between what you want and what you express
